How do these apprenticeships work?

Apprentices are required to devote 20% of their normal working time to studying on the programme.

During this time, as an Apprentice you could be studying online modules, attending face-to-face sessions at University, completing an assignment, or meeting with a skills coach/mentor to develop your management and leadership qualities. Learning will focus on the practical application of theory in all aspects of management and will be driven by the latest theories and business practices. You will have the opportunity to base your assignments on your own workplace, giving you additional opportunities to practically apply knowledge and understanding.

Fees and funding

Costs associated with providing the degree, skills mentoring and programme management are included in Degree Apprenticeship fees. The fees can be covered using different funding options, depending on the size of the employer.

- Large employers – Businesses with an annual payroll bill exceeding £3 million, and who are subject to the 0.5% Apprenticeship levy, can use the funding in their digital account to cover the cost of the training and assessment elements of the Apprenticeship.*
- Small and medium-sized employers – Businesses that do not have a payroll value of over £3 million and who are not subject to the levy, will be eligible to receive a Government subsidy that covers 95% of the eligible Apprenticeship costs*. Non-levy paying organisations may also be eligible to receive additional employer incentives.

* Please note that currently, neither the Apprenticeship levy nor the 95% Government subsidy can be used to offset salary costs.
